

A NOVEL SUICIDE.

How Joseph Benson Sought the Other World.

THE LAUDERDALE PEERAGE.

Steamship Rates Advancing—The Grant Trophies—The Iron Troubles—Wheat Crop.

A Tremendous Tremor.

New York, June 10.—Three startling explosions which have just occurred, have completely blown up Benson's liquor saloon on Thames street. The debris was hurled in all directions and some half dozen people were badly cut and hurt. Joseph Benson, owner of the place, was found beneath the debris in the collar terribly burnt and mangled. He had sat on a twenty-five pound keg of powder and exploded it. He had two such kegs with which he told the city marshal he intended to blow up himself and his place, because everybody was after him. A razor was found covered with blood by his side. The fire brigade quickly extinguished the flames. Benson is at the hospital suffering terrible agony and slowly dying. Delirium tremens is given as the cause for his novel, yet determined act.

Its Final Rest.

ATLANTA, Ga., June 10.—This morning a special train bearing the remains of Alexander H. Stephens, accompanied by an escort and many citizens, left Atlanta for Crawfordsville, where the body, which had been removed from the vault in this city, will be laid in its permanent resting place at Liberty Hall. The funeral services will take place at Crawfordsville this afternoon, when General Robert Toombs, a lifelong friend of Mr. Stephens, will make the address.

Raising Rates.

New York, June 10.—At the recent conference of steamship passenger agents, it was decided to increase steamer rates between New York and Liverpool, but from Liverpool here no change will be made. The White Star, Cunard, Inman and Anchor Lines will charge $20, an advance of $5, while the Guion, State and American lines will charge $19. The new rates will go into effect on the 15th instant.

Obituary.

MONTREAL, June 10.—The remains of Arch-Bishop Thourget are lying in state at St. Paul. A Recollect the pontifical Zouaves forming a guard of honor. On Thursday will be celebrated solemnly at which over fifty bishops and 1,000 priests from Canada and the United States are expected to be present. The remains will then be elevated to the arch-bishop's throne and carried to Notre Dame church.

The Grant Trophies.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—Col. L. N. Batchelder, deputy quartermaster general, left Washington last night for New York to receive and bring to Washington the testimonials and presents received by General Grant at home and abroad, which were presented to this government by Mrs. Grant. It has not yet been decided where the presents will be permanently stored.

General Grant.

New York, June 10.—General Grant passed an almost sleepless night. Dr. Douglas said that it was not because of pain, but that it was the result of steady thought and application to literary work yesterday. The local conditions are unchanged.

The Iron Troubles.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 10.—The Amalgamated Association reports another signature to their scale to-day, the Akron Iron Co., of Akron, Ohio. The firm employs about 3,000 men. The plate mill of Silgo Iron Works was running to-day with non-union men.

The Barber's Side of It.

"You hear a great deal of talk about being too talkative," said a Pittsburgh barber, "but let me tell you that the barber who doesn't talk isn't any good. He isn't popular with the trade and doesn't make a good workman. You see, a man comes in and he gets into the chair, and the barber commences shaving him without a word. The man who is being shaved has nothing to think about except himself, and he immediately begins to kick about the razor. It pulls and hurts his face, and nothing suits him, and he goes away dissatisfied with the shop and the barber. Now, one of those good-natured, talkative barbers would take that man and commence talking politics, and the weather, the police, and the skating rink to him, and there never would be the slightest kick. No, sir; the barber could use his oldest, duldest and rustiest razor and the man would never think of complaining, and when the barber would finish combing his hair by telling him he had just like Abe Lincoln, or Charles Sumner, he'd get up and give him a cigar and go off feeling good-natured, and swear that was the best shop in the city."

The Lauderdale Peerage.

LONDON, June 10.—A committee of the House of Lords, to-day, began consideration of the claim of Major Maitland to the Lauderdale peerage. Major Maitland, in his petition to the Lords, says he is a peer of the fourth son of the sixth Earl of Lauderdale, who is alleged married Mary MacAdams in New York in 1773, two days before her death. Mary MacAdams had borne three sons to this fourth son of the sixth earl and it is contended by the petitioner, Major Maitland, that this marriage legitimized the offsprings. Sir James Maitland, descendant of the sixth son of the sixth Earl of Lauderdale, contests the claim of Major Maitland to the peerage. United States Senator Edmunds, and Messrs. Fowler, Stephens, Nash and Clarence Cary will give testimony concerning the law of marriage as it existed in the American colonies in 1772.

The Wheat Crop.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—The June crop report of the Agricultural Department estimates the total wheat crop of the country at 390,000,000 bushels, of which 207,000,000 is winter and 183,000,000 spring. The condition of winter wheat is lower than ever before in June, being now 62 against 72 in May. The condition of spring wheat is 97.

An Ambitious Prince.

PARIS, June 10.—The supporters of Victor Napoleon, son of Prince Napoleon, have issued an election manifesto. It proclaims no community with revolutions and appeals for the support of all who are opposed to the Republic, promising them fair representation in the electoral list.

His Elevation.

LONDON, June 10.—The Queen has created Lord Wolseley a Knight of the Order of St. Patrick, in succession to Lord O'Hagan.

The Coming Marriage.

LONDON, June 10.—Prince Beatrice's marriage is officially announced to take place on July 23d, next.

Coming Home.

LONDON, June 10.—James Russell Lowell sailed to-day for the United States, aboard the steamer Scythia.

A Captive Church.

A few gentle taps will bring the portress. "Who is there?" and "Open," are the usual question and answer; she opens, and stands shyly, with a corner of her veil drawn over her mouth. Permission to enter is readily given by the Mother Superior, a tall and rather comely matron, who receives one with a frank smile of welcome. Just at the entrance, in a recess to the right, lies a very pretty well, with a windlass above the pitchers and other water vessels scattered about in charming disorder. To the left is the small but beautiful courtyard of the convent, overshadowed by a fine tall nabuk or sycamore which rises near the well and mounts in a sweeping curve into the midst of the court; higher up its branches spread out, and their graceful leaves brush against the upper windows. The east face of the court is formed by a large open screen of woodwork, with two circular steps leading up to an open doorway with tall folding doors in the centre. The Lady Superior does not disdain the formality of a cigarette, though the nuns, apparently, are not given to the practice of smoking. Against the wall opposite is a large and beautiful old bench; on this three or four damsels are sitting, or squatting, with modest eyes downcast on their embroidery. They are clad in the ordinary black Arab dress, but wear no veils; their wrists are encircled with bangles or bracelets of massive silver; they wear, also, necklets of silver or gold, beads or brass, and ear-rings and anklets. Their quiet, shy, inquisitive manner, and the tranquil smile about their lips, denote admirably the peaceful anchorite retirement of their lives. —The Ancient Ooptic Churches of Egypt.—A. J. Butler.
